AIRMAN KILLED WHEN
ROMA COLLAPSED, SAID
FABRIC IN BAD SHAPE

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 24.—Robert Hanson, airplane mechanic, who lost his life in the Roma disaster, doubted the safety of the dirigible, according to a letter received by his aunt at Miami. In the letter, written Monday night and mailed Tuesday, while enroute to the hangar to board the Roma, Hanson said the fabric was "in bad shape."

He reported that she had been paralyzed and that her tendency shows a tendency to the sub-drive to determine whether a man is responsible for the murder.

Taylor, arrested when Harry N. under arrest in Detroit, gave a circumstantial version of the facts of the drug ring at Hollywood.

States Attorney Thomas Lee Wood, a mass of data regarding the facts of the drug ring at Hollywood.

Thomas Green turned over to Attorney Thomas Lee Wood a mass of data regarding the facts of the drug ring at Hollywood.

It was understood that Taylor twice visited him, the one being about three weeks.

Taylor, he gathered, was in the lead in the fight against the traffickers. His aim was to from their clutches a woman he is said to have loved.

Great doubt has been thrown on the story in some particulars, confirmation has been obtained of the confessed member of the drug ring in the development that he was arrested in New York, Feb. 6. His story here said he went via Seattle, where he believed it would have been possible for him to have left here early 2 and arrive in Buffalo the day that route.

On the other hand, they have found a bank clerk who recalls changing a bill for a stranger who appeared to him and acted suspiciously. An they are wondering if Fields is his information through the various underground channels of the drug world and although he was the actual driver of the car, as claimed, has the general air of the murder story in fact not fancy.

Important has the drug angle of investigation become that federal, city and county officials were all engaged in the inquiry. Two wives of the State Board of Inquiry joined in the probe today, drawing all their attention to investigation of the activities of the drug

AXE WILL FALL HEAVILY ON THE U.S. NAVY YARDS

Present Navy Will Be Cut in Two if Present Plans of Congress for Retirement Are Carried Out
Seventy-five Per Cent of Complement of Each Navy Yard
Would Be Affected—Only
Four of the Nine Naval Yards
Would Remain in Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The considerable axe now hanging over army and navy appropriations is threatening the existence of more than half of the navy yards of the country, it was said today by navy officials.

Should the axe fall on naval appropriations as heavily as some congressional leaders are threatening, the navy department, it is said, will be forced to virtually close all but the few absolutely vital establishments.

The flash of personnel at the yards will range upward to 75 per cent of the complement of each yard affected, it is understood. This will mean even more thousands of workers suspended from employment than the recent order of stopping construction.

Should the already well defined plan of cutting the navy appropriations of $400,000,000 in half materialize, only four of the existing nine yards will be retained in commission. The others will be forced to gradually suspend operations.

The yards likely to be retained are the so called "strategic" establishments located at Brooklyn and Norfolk, on the Atlantic, and Mare Island and Puget Sound on the Pacific. Both Pacific yards are necessary, it is said, because the Mare Island base is not sufficient of itself to care for the powerful fleet now stationed in that region. The yards likely to suffer are the Portmouth, where a total of 2,322 civilian workers are employed; Boston, with 2,853 workers; Philadelphia, 4,952 workers; Washington, 6,185 workers; and Charleston, 1,297 workers. These complements are already reduced and at each of the yard which will be affected deep cuts ranging upward to 75 per cent will occur, according to present estimates.

The navy department takes the position that it cannot be responsible for any such action, as the matter is now up to Congress, although they hope to avoid any actually drastic move, making any necessary cuts as gradual as possible.

PRESIDENT POWER CO. TESTIFIES

MARTIN LAYS THE GROUND
WORK FOR PROBABLE
FIGHT OVER PLANT.

FORD COMPANY TO BE CAPITALIZED AT TEN MILLION DOLLARS

Invitations to Senators to Visit
Many Southern Cities Extended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Criticism of the Alabama Power company for insistence that the government live up to its contract by permitting it and not Henry Ford to purchase the Muscle Shoals, Ala., water power project was declared unjust today by Thomas W. Martin, president of the company.

Appearing before the House Military Affairs committee, Martin asserted that the option, giving the company right to purchase a part of the project was incorporated in the contract by demand of the government. He told the committee that the company intends to see that the optional purchase right is given it even if it has to resort to the courts to force the government to live up to its contract.

Martin's testimony this afternoon was designed to lay the ground work for probable legal action which would have the effect of holding up governmental lease of Muscle Shoals to Ford should Congress favor the Ford bid and turn down the rival offer of the Alabama Power company.

In committee circles, it was understood today that Ford has agreed to specify the capitalization of the proposed operating company he will form in the event his offer is accepted, at about $10,000,000.

Invitations to the committee to visit Chattanooga, Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, if it inspects Muscle Shoals were received today from mayors of those cities.

Martin testified to the formation of the company with English capital, which, however, was withdrawn after the world war and American capital was substituted. The company is now controlled by American interests, he testified in refutation of statements of previous witnesses that it was a Canadian controlled corporation. He testified to the negotiations between his company and the government. He asserted that the government "demanded" as a protection measure, that when the plant was no longer of use to the government, the Alabama Power company would purchase it on a fair value basis. He said agreement was reached with government officials that "the United States would sell the property at Muscle Shoals, on our demand."

The optional purchase provision in the contract upon which the Alabama Power company hopes to avert lease of the shoals to Ford, Martin declared, is as follows:

"At any time subsequent to three years after the termination of the war, the United States shall have the option to sell to the contractor and the contractor shall, upon written demand of the United States, buy all its rights, title and interest in and to the Warholi extension and the Warholi sub-station with all rights appurtenant thereto at the value fixed by all interested."

The capital removal provision has aroused much interest throughout the state and its most recent suggestion has made a change of views as to the inadvisability of Talmadge's long being a source of general anxiety.

POSTPONEMENT GENOA MEETING PLEASING HERE

New That Conference to Be Held at Genoa Postponed Relieves U. S. of Either Accepting or Rejecting the Italian Invitation to Participate—Whole Economic Matter May Be Called Off, Following Conference Between the French and English Premiers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The long-awaited announcement from Rome of the postponement of the Genoa economic conference beyond March 8, the date originally set, has relieved the American government of the necessity of either accepting or rejecting the Italian invitation.

There were signs of relief in administration quarters today, for neither President Harding nor Secretary of State Hughes desired to give the Italian invitation a flat turn-down, and yet both were opposed to this government's active participation in a conference so wholly European.

Subsequent events, it was said today, would determine finally the extent of America's participation in the parley at some future date to be agreed upon by the French and British premiers in their meeting tomorrow.

In some quarters, it was predicted today that the whole Genoa project may be called off following the Lloyd-George-Poincaré conference. It is a question whether the Genoa meeting could accomplish a great deal without American participation. It is known that Lloyd-George is keenly disappointed at the turn of events.

It is likely that many more reasons will be found by the administration for non-participation in coming weeks. The government's attention will be riveted shortly upon the refunding of foreign loans, negotiations for which are soon to begin with all countries indebted to the United States.

In addition, the difficulties which the administration is experiencing in getting the conference treaties through the Senate is to militate against the undertaking of any further international conference at this time.

The "long lost" French note written several weeks ago and requesting a postponement of the conference was presented to the state department today by the French embassy.

No explanation was volunteered for the unusual delay in delivering the note, but it is presumed that the missive has been held up at the French embassy here with the knowledge of American officials, who did not desire to express an opinion on the Genoa conference until Italy herself had taken postponement action.

It was announced at the department that a "study" would be made of the French communication, and when that had been completed, a reply would be sent to both Paris and Rome.

The shooting occurred shortly after Miss Matthews, 17, the complainant witness, had taken the witness stand to tell her story of the wrong. Trembling and almost hysterical, she drew an automatic pistol from a pocket and shot Crossin three times. He fell from his chair dead.

It was Crossin's second trial for the alleged crime. At the first trial he was convicted and sentenced to nine years in prison but the conviction was reversed by the criminal appeals court and a new trial granted.

GIRL KILLS MAN IN COURTROOM WHILE HE IS FACING TRIAL

WACO, Texas, Feb. 24.—While a crowded court room looked on in horror, J. E. Crossin, on trial here for criminal assault, was shot and killed this morning by the girl whom he is alleged to have wronged.

The shooting occurred shortly after Miss Matthews, 17, the complainant witness, had taken the witness stand to tell her story of the wrong. Trembling and almost hysterical, she drew an automatic pistol from a pocket and shot Crossin three times. He fell from his chair dead.

It was Crossin's second trial for the alleged crime. At the first trial he was convicted and sentenced to nine years in prison but the conviction was reversed by the criminal appeals court and a new trial granted.

The United States understands that under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of this treaty, there is no commitment to armed force, or for an alliance, and no obligation to join in any defense.

After but a half an hour's session the committee reached an agreement to finally tomorrow on the Pacific pact, and on all reservations, or amendments offered thereto.

It was first proposed that final action on the treaty should be taken today, but Senator Johnson of California, one of the Republican "irreconcilables" urged that it be deferred until tomorrow.

Senator Pomerene (D.), of Ohio, then made a formal motion at a final vote on the treaty and all matters pertaining to it be taken tomorrow. Pomerene's motion was unanimously voted.

The United States understands that under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of this treaty, there is no commitment to armed force, or for an alliance, and no obligation to join in any defense.

It was pointed out by them that the reservation merely expressed what the President and administration and spokesman had contended all along, that the treaty did not commit the United States to employ armed force, or to any alliance, or to any obligation to join in the defense of pacific possessions not its own.

By the Republican "irreconcilables," the reservation was considered as an admission by the treaty's supporters that the United States was not properly safeguarded against such a commitment by the treaty itself.

Senator Johnson of California, one of the Republican "irreconcilables" who led yesterday's fight against the Harding-Lodge reservation, strenuously opposed the proposed Harding-Brandeis compromise.

When Brandeis suggested the withdrawal of his original reservation and the substitution of it by the one agreed upon by President Harding and him, Johnson served notice that he would offer the original himself if Brandeis abandoned it, and insist upon its being voted up or voted down.

Johnson also declared that he would fight the Harding-Brandeis reservation.

and see those who have been instrumental in giving to Daytona new charter. They are to be succeeded by those who will be granted the new charter. It is only proper that these men should be put to the new chartered organization by the civic group which sponsored the charter, which will be elected March 7th.

The Daily News believes that the election of the first named seven will mean the conduct of the affairs of the city without obligation to any clique or faction; that each a board will work diligently and earnestly for the advancement of municipal affairs.

The selection of members of the board of commissioners at the March 7th election does not depend so greatly upon the personnel of the members, because each and every one of the fourteen named are above reproach and worthy citizens. The selection, however, depends also solely upon the tendency of the prospective candidate to lean toward bosses or clique rule.

The people feel sure that the election of the first named seven will mean that the city government will not remain under the baneful political influences which have retarded the prosperity of the city the past few years.

Keep this in mind and vote for the first, or civic ticket, named by the civic organizations as the best composed board for operation of the new city charter.

Oldest convict in our country—probably in the world—is a 93-year-old man who is sent up from Philadelphia to serve five years for chicken stealing. Wardens call him the "dean of convicts."

He has been in and out of prisons and jails much of his time since he was 40. Obviously, he knows that crime doesn't pay. Why, then, hasn't he gone straight?

Drunks know the answer—he lacks will power. Next generation won't have such specimens. Repeaters will be turned over to medical specialists, who will develop will power to normal by treating the adrenal glands.

Coal miners put forth a new idea in the matter of pay. They say what they get a day doesn't count—that they are idle part of the time, so their compensation should be on a basis to insure them a fair income for the whole year. Since 1899 coal miners have worked an average of about 220 days a year. Sundays and holidays must be added. This leaves, roughly, three months during which the average miner is idle. The solution of this 220 per cent labor surplus? Some think there are too many miners. There would be, if mines could be kept running constantly. But the public buys by fits and starts. Miners have to be on hand, like firemen waiting for an alarm. That is the real mine-labor problem.

Most of us live in a half-awake trance. Occasionally we come bewilderedly out of the trance and realize the frightful economic problems that keep us chained. Then we go out looking for something to "make us forget our troubles." In the old days, it was whisky. Now it's movies and jazz. All these are forms of dope. Problems remain unsolved, because we try to forget them.

Poverty and the impending arrival of a baby induced a young married man in Los Angeles to forge $5 note. From behind the bars, he learns that he inherits a $500,000 legacy from an aunt in London. If he had only held out a few days longer against bad luck! The night is blackest just before dawn. When discouragement gets so bitter it seems it can't be endured any longer, that's usually a sure sign luck is about to change.

Live stock on farms and ranges in our country slumped in value $3,385,237,000 during 1921, says the department of agriculture. This is due to a drop of nearly 42 per cent in market price. The balloon has been pricked, but farmers still have the balloon. From the livestock slump they learn that all value is imaginary until it's cashed in.

(Compiled by Miami Herald)

Never seemed to leave him. She brought him food, she sat at the door of his tent, she followed him about the village and bore herself openly as his slave.

At last old Kahtoo, who would not give up his great hope, plead with her to marry him, and while he was talking the girl stood at the door of the tent and interrupted them. Her mother's eyes were growing dim, she said. Her mother wanted to talk with White Arrow and look upon his face before her sight should altogether pass.

Nor could Erskine know that the white woman wanted to look into the eyes of the man she hoped would become her daughter's husband, but Kahtoo did, and he bade Erskine go. Erskine rose and went to the white woman's tent. She sat just inside the opening, with a blanket across the lower half of her face. She paled him with questions, and listened eagerly to his every word, and drew from him every detail of his life as far back as he could remember.

Poor soul, it was the first opportunity for many years that she had to talk with any white person who had been in the Eastern world, and freely and frankly he told nothing back.

When in turn he questioned her, she told little, and his own native delicacy made him understand. She, too, had been captured with a son who would have been about Erskine's age, but her boy and her husband had been killed. She had been made a slave and—now she drew the slave across her eyes—after the birth of her daughter she felt she could never go back to her own people.

She loved her daughter; she would not subject her or herself to humiliation among the whites, and, anyway, there was no one to whom she could go. Her concern was with her daughter—what would become of her? Many a young brave, besides Black Wolf, had put his heart at her little feet, but she would have none of them. And so Erskine was the heaven-sent answer to the mother's prayers—that was the thought behind her mournful eyes.

All the while the girl had crouched near, looking at Erskine with doglike eyes, and when he rose to go the woman dropped the blanket from her face and got to her feet. Shyly she lifted her hands, took his face between them, bent close, and studied it searching.

"What is your name?" Erskine asked.

Without a word she turned back into her tent.

At dusk Erskine stood by the river's brim with his eyes lifted to a rising moon and his thoughts with Barbara.

Behind him he heard a rustle and, turning, he saw the girl, her breast throbbing and her eyes burning with a light he had never seen before.

"Black Wolf will kill you," she whispered. "Black Wolf wants Early Morn and Crooked Lightning and Black Wolf. He knows that Early Morn wants White Arrow."

Erskine put both hands on her shoulders and looked down into her eyes.

She trembled, and when his arms went about her she surged closer to him and the touch of her warm, simple body went through him like fire. And then with a triumphant smile she sprang back.

"Black Wolf will see," she whispered, and fled. Erskine sank to the ground, with his head in his hands.

The girl ran back to her tent, and the mother, peering at the flushed face and shining eyes, close to the truth.

She said nothing, but when the girl was asleep and faintly smiling, the white woman sat staring out into the moonlit woods, softly beating her breast.

CHAPTER XVII

With the head of Clark's column of stalwart woodsmen went Dave Vandell and Erskine Dale.

During the months Kashashie fell, then Vincennes passed into the hands of the Americans and there came one morning when Erskine went forth at dawn, and his coming into the Shawnee camp was like the coming of a king. Early Morn greeted him with glowing eyes, his foster-mother brought him food, looking proudly up at him, and old Kahtoo harangued his braves around the council-pole.

"My son spoke words of truth," he proclaimed sonorously. "He warned us against the king over the waters and told us to make friends with the Americans. My son is the true prophet. Bring out the false one and Crooked Lightning and Black Wolf, who like my son saved though the two were enemies. My son shall do what he pleases."

Many young braves sprang willingly forward and the three were haled before Erskine.

Erskine rose and fixed his eyes sternly on the covering prophet:

"He shall go forth from the village and shall never return. He is a false prophet and he must go." He turned to Crooked Lightning:

"Crooked Lightning shall go or stay, as he pleases. Black Wolf shall stay, for the tribe will need him as a hunter and a warrior against the English foes of the Long Knives."

The braves grunted approval. Black Wolf and Crooked Lightning averted their faces and the prophet shambled uneasily away.

Again old Kahtoo proclaimed sonorously, "It is well!" and went back to his tent. There he sank wearily on a buffalo-skin and plead with the boy to stay with them as chief in his stead. He was very old, and now that peace was made he was willing to do it. If Erskine would but give his promise, he would never rise again from where he lay.

Erskine shook his head and the old man sorrowfully turned his face.

And yet Erskine lingered on and on at the village.

Of the white woman he had learned little other than that she had been bought from another tribe and adopted by old Kahtoo; but it was plain that since the threatened burning of her she had been held in high respect by the whole tribe.

He had never talked with her, but he never moved about the camp that he did not feel her eyes upon him. And Early Morn's big soft eyes, too,

CHAPTER XVIII

In the white woman Erskine soon saw a change. Once she had encouraged him to stay with the Indians, now she lost no opportunity to urge against it.

Her face had blanched, she argued passionately that he must go, and Erskine was sorely puzzled. The girl, too, had grown rebellious and disobedient, for the change in her mother was plain also to her, and she could not understand. Moreover, Erskine's stubbornness grieved, and he began to flame within at the stalking insolence of Black Wolf, who continued to seek the hand of Early Morn.

One day in the open village the clash came. Black Wolf darted forth from his wigwam, his eyes bloodshot with rage and drink, and his hunting knife in his hand.

A cry from Early Morn warned Erskine and he wheeled. As Black Wolf made a vicious slash at him he sprang aside, and with his fist caught vaged the boat and found it loaded with cases of whiskey.

"Stop them!" old Kahtoo cried sternly, but it was the terrified shriek of the white woman that stayed Erskine's hand. Two young braves disarmed the fallen Indian, and Kahtoo looked inquiringly at his adopted son.

"Turn him loose!" Erskine scolded.

"I have no fear of him. Next time I shall kill him."

Mrs. T. G. Winter,
Noted Club Woman,
as Forum Speaker

One week from Sunday, March 5th, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of America, will be the Forum speaker-guest, in place of Gen. Balloch, who was previously scheduled to speak on that day.

The opportunity to hear Mrs. Winter discuss the Washington conference from the viewpoint of the leading club woman of America will be a treat equal to any of the Forum speakers.

Mrs. Winter, who resides in Minneapolis, has had a most active career in public welfare work. For eight years she was president of the Minneapolis Women's Club, and is a member of the Minnesota Child Labor commission, an honorary member of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association, secretary of the Hostesses, chairman of the Women's committee of the Minn. division of the Council for National Defense, a director of the Women's auxiliary of the Minn. Commission for Public Safety and a director of the Minn. Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Winter is perhaps as well known as an author as she is as a great club woman, having written "The Prize to the Hardy," "Keweenaw" and other books, and is the editor of "Charles Gordon Ames—A Spiritual Autobiography." Having been vice-president of the General Federation of Women's clubs the past term, she was elected to the head office last year, in which position she has made a great success.

The only woman speaker on the Forum program this year, no better selection could have been made than that of Mrs. Winter, whom many here have had the opportunity of hearing speak in the past and who will be delighted to enjoy a discussion of the conference.

Mrs. Anna Britton and daughter, Miss Jenny Britton, who have been spending the winter season at the Lopek Apartments on Main street, Daytona Beach, left Thursday afternoon for Lake Worth, where they plan to spend a month. Leaving Lake Worth the last of March, they plan to go to Ft. Myers and on to Captiva Island for a month with relatives, before returning to their home in New Vienna, O.

Mr. Miller had to answer numerous questions for the further enlightenment of interested citizens present.

Miley Melton, who has driven about all the artesian wells now operating in this neighborhood for the past fifteen years, was called upon as to the probable cost and best location of such water supply wells as the town may want to use in its service to the citizens, and Mr. Melton suggested that three six-inch wells at a depth of not more than 185 feet would be ample sufficient for all present and future requirements.

C. A. Ballough, who was formerly engaged in artesian well boring, corroborated Mr. Melton's statements as to location and depth where best and most satisfactory water supply could be obtained.

George A. Main, civil engineer, was called upon and, placing upon the council table a number of blue prints outlined a general plan for the placing of additional mains, hydrants and connections for an efficient flow and abundant supply from the main which will for all the required needs of the town and residents thereof.

UNITED STATES IS NOT OBLIGATED TO JOIN IN DEFENSE

tion just as vigorous as he had the Harding Lodge reservation.

"The original Brandege reservation," said Johnson, "safeguards the United States in two important particulars. It first provides that we are under neither a legal nor a moral obligation to maintain the rights of the other nations in relation to their insular possessions or insular dominions, and secondly it requires the consent of congress to any adjustment or understanding other than the treaty and states specifically that there is no obligation, either legal or moral, on the part of the United States to give such consent.

The new reservation offered by Senator Brandege does neither of these things and offers neither safeguard provided by the original. If it be essential, that is not accomplished by the new reservation, to which I am unalterably opposed."

Senator Williams, Democrat of Mississippi, was also understood to have denounced the new reservation as "not ringing true" and as being "indecisive." William was said to have declared that "whereas the new reservation stated that there is no obligation to join in the defense of Pacific possessions, the treaty itself does provide for that very thing."

Two-Foot Lettuce Head Raised By Wm. Wetherell in City

A monstrous head of lettuce has been shown in town during the day and caused some sensation. This particular head, measured more than two feet across and weighed close onto a pound and a half; the trunk itself being nearly two inches in diameter.

William Wetherell, located on Beach street just beyond Fairview, is the grower and if this head and a few more of its brothers had been exhibited at the recent fair, a blue ribbon would have been awarded the grower.

Mr. Wetherell stated to the Newsman that only a little stable fertilizer had been used but that hard work and keeping everlastingly at it, giving the plant plenty of time and attention were the only reasons why he can grow such fine lettuce. Contrary to the general belief, that big lettuce is tough, this head was just as crisp and tender as could be desired.

Hospital Affairs of Interest

Mrs. Fred D. Graves, chairman of the Palmetto club automobile committee, has announced the names of additional members of this committee who have offered the use of their cars in assisting organization work for the hospital. Dr. Dr. H. Garmer, C. L. Clinton, president of Arcade Auto Supply Company, R. J. Greene, Greene Brothers, garage, John Miller, W. B. Snow, Sun Garage company, F. B. Mason, Traveler Motor company.

One of the older residents of Daytona, recently returned to the town, has announced the names of additional members of this committee who have offered the use of their cars in assisting organization work for the hospital.

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Daytona Hospital Foundation Friday evening at 8 o'clock. All persons are welcome to attend.

Famous Musician Will Have Part in Mikado

Robert Hanbury of New York City, who recently introduced the Chinese Opera at New Haven, has been chosen to take the part of Ko Ko, the lead male, in the Mikado, which will be staged at the Auditorium next week.

Mr. Hanbury is a graduate of Williams College and studied music at Asbury Seminary and Kent State, and also went abroad and studied at Munich, which altogether qualified him most wonderfully for the part. He is full of pep, life and originality and will be well worth the price of admission.

Oppen, Elizabeth of New York, is a special guest.

SCHOOL NEWS

COMMUNICATIONS

Dental examination is being made of all the children of the Central schools of Daytona. Major H. B. Butler and Miss V. B. Thorp, representatives of the State Board of Health, are in charge of these examinations. Major Butler stated that the teeth of the majority of the children were good, but that proper care was not being given them.

It has not yet been decided whether an examination of the teeth will be carried on in the High School or not. Miss Edwards, the school's nurse, is urging the girls of Daytona schools to be examined for hook worm.

The examinations will be made by Dr. Josie Rogers.

Carnival to be Given

On Friday, March 3, a carnival will be given in the Central school building of Daytona. A matinee and an evening show will be given. Each class room will be used for a side show, while a large show will be staged in the auditorium.

The large show will be a vaudeville show, while the side shows will consist of pantomimes, stunt shows, fake shows, plays and vaudeville acts.

Suggestions are being handed to the teachers, by the students. A large cafe supper will be served in the Home Economics department of the school on the evening of the carnival. The greater part of the food will be donated by the parents.

The proceeds from this carnival will be used for the benefit of the school.

Lunches in Abundance

Lunches are still being served in abundance at the Daytona schools. A number from 250 to 275 is being served each day.

The menus for the past week have been:

Monday—Blushing bunny on toast, cinnamon bun and milk.

Tuesday—Scrambled egg sandwiches, jelly sandwiches and milk.

Wednesday—Baked beans, apples and mayonnaise sandwiches, and milk.

Thursday—Creamed dried beef on toast, cookie and milk.

Friday—Cheese sandwiches, ice cream cones and milk.

Special Purpose Issues

The Senior issue of the "Purpose" will come out next week. The senior pictures were taken yesterday for this issue.

The Junior Sophomore and Freshmen issues have already been issued in previous weeks.

After the Senior issue the boys will get out an issue followed by the girls issue.

The "Purpose" staff for the girls issue was elected yesterday. Those elected so far were:

Emma Barnes—Editor-in-chief.

Vivian Titus, Gertrude Livingston, Mary Beth Reynolds—Associate editors.

Miriam Rightmire, Marion Stover, Hilda Osborne—Literary editors.

Hiland Chaffee, Maxine Hankins, Georgine Sheely—Local editors.

Thelma Bingham—Athletic editor.

Louise Lapp, Robyn Stratton, Grace Paxson—Joke editors.

Zora Goodrich, Bernice Edwards—Exchange editors.

The Daytona schools do not cease to increase in the number of those enrolled. There were 32 new pupils entered into the Daytona schools for the past month.

On Wednesday, Washington's birthday, ethics of the day were taught throughout the Daytona schools.

John A. Callahan, of Holbrook, Mass., principal for 25 years of the Highland District of that city, was a welcome visitor to the Central school on Tuesday.

Four brief toasts were responded to by members of the society on the meaning of the four letters in the name of the society. B. Y. P. U. Mrs. Rose Owen responded to the letter "B." It was a happy turn on the meaning of the letter. Miss Else Hoffman responded to the letter "Y." Miss Flora Doty, to the letter "P." and Miss Marian Edwards, to the letter "U." Miss Rose Kelly gave a reading following. Several comical and amusing songs were sung by different groups as they sat about the tables. The event of the evening, however, was the installation of the officers. This was a most impressive service. The pastor, acting as master of ceremonies, lighted a single candle and then requested that the other lights be turned off. He then lighted the candle held by the president, Ralph Meyers, who after handing each other an unlighted candle in the order of their office, lighted the candle of each and sought by words of inspiration to encourage them to seek the honor of responsibility in taking charge of the work of the society as its newly elected officers. The following were the officers installed: President, Ralph Meyers; vice president, John Polson; recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Gould; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ross Brown; treasurer, Miss Edith Collier; steward, Miss Alice Campbell; pastor, Miss Miriam Rightmire.

Follows the law against offender and intercessor or enigma upon any occasion must be the豫posed matter is clearly proved as an offense but if committed by a fellow human being into a terrible victim and cause to involve into the public disgrace of persons who really are not guilty such as that fact is growth and become very common. I am not attacking against any person but will speak against fearful condition of daily contact because of the public injury.

I begin therefore, with the other view in this matter, and this will be necessary to go over now into this minute detail a little more fully. I dare say, before the public those who believes that groundless of untrue is might be considered as a true, but he may be innocently mistaken, because of that strong personal opinion of their mind among the people of certain amount, but at any reason should not disturb the other person with false intent of a rumor, such as that motive is injurious its unearthing act of a dangerous mischief.

WINTER RESORTS

THE CLARENDON

HOTEL ORMOND

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Campbell, Jr., of Atlanta, who are motoring over the state, are spending several days at the Clarendon. They expect later to visit Palm Beach and other points. Mr. Campbell is connected with the R. O. Campbell Coal company of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Reid of Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Parsons of New York are guests of the Clarendon for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon of North Bay, Ont., regular season guests at the Clarendon, have returned for the remainder of the season.

They are accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McFadden of Sprague, Ont.

John Porteous and Miss M. A. Porteous of Norwich, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Porteous of Portland, Me., were luncheon guests yesterday at the Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Zahner of Topeka, Kan., who have been winter guests of the Clarendon for the last twelve years and who "have been further south for a portion of the winter," have arrived at the Clarendon, where they expect to remain until they start back home.

The striking success of this great function must be attributed largely to the organizing talents and untiring industry of the committee of arrangements, with Miss Adelaide Kaine as chairman. Financially the result was most satisfactory, approximately $1200 being realized from this tremendous undertaking for so worthy a cause.

There were several hundred persons present for the ball and supper, which was served at 11:30 p. m., and many entertained at dinner preceding the ball. Among whom were Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hutchens, Dr. and Mrs. J. Blake White, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Perkins who had six guests; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald, who had eight guests; Frank Hedley of New York; Mrs. C. R. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gormley, James P. Vining and Miss Adelaide Kaine, who gave a dinner at her cottage.

Much appreciation and pleasure was expressed on all sides for the delightful entertainment donated by Miss Evelyn Lyle of Daytona, a 12-year-old miss, who rendered some very artistic dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hall of Boston are at the Prince George for a few days.

Alvin Bayer and S. P. Clark of Jacksonville, who are touring Florida on a business trip, are registered at the Prince George.

John F. Timmins and his son, Thomas Timmins, of New York, who have been seeing Florida by automobile, are now on the return trip home and are spending a few days at the Prince George.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shaw and Miss Elizabeth Shaw of Atlantic City and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shaw of Warren, Pa., are breaking a motor trip with a stay of several days in Daytona, stopping at the Prince George.

John Gillis of New York and George P. Parkes of Tarrytown, N. Y., are guests of the Prince George.

C. O. Mcintosh of Savannah, who was golf professional at the links of the Bob Air hotel in Augusta, which burned recently, is spending a few days at the Prince George. Mr. Mcintosh shot the course of the Daytona Golf and Country club in 36 and 39, which caused greats of amazement from a number of local golfers, the record being 37.

The song service of the 19th was most successful. Reading, singing and solo work, with harp accompaniment, added to a trio and an original poem formed a most interesting programme.

Monday a gay party left early for a trip to Spruce Creek. They report a perfect outing so another group will soon be on the way.

Wednesday a party followed the Halifax river to Daytona; it was delightful, just the day for a river trip. The many boats are kept busy.

Wednesday evening a most elaborate and well rendered program, under the auspices of W. I. S. H. closed the National holiday in a most fitting manner. Seldom can a small community boast of such talent, the reader coming from the outside. Decorations and refreshments were unique.

SEASIDE INN

Mrs. C. P. Harley of Defiance, Ohio, is spending several days at the Seaside Inn.

Mrs. James R. Hickey and son of Springfield, Ill., are guests of the Seaside Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peters and Mrs. Mary Taft of Columbus, Ohio, are spending some time at the hotel.

Marvin Campbell of South Bend, Ind., has joined his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hager, at the Seaside Inn, where he may spend the remainder of the season.

Mr. Harry Sands of LaGrange, Ill., is among recent arrivals at the hotel. The weekly dance at the Seaside Inn was held last night with a large number of guests and friends from other hotels and the Triple Cities in attendance.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN CONCERNING COFFEE

Sister Mary Tells the Proper Way to Prepare It.

While the goodness of a cup of coffee depends much on the brand, the best brand of coffee in the world can be spoiled in the making.

Choose the brand, then the way you want to make the beverage and see that the berry is ground to conform with the making. If you use a percolator the coffee should be ground "medium." Filter or "drip" coffee pots require pulverized coffee and the old-fashioned "pot on the stove" takes a medium-coarse ground berry.

The most delicious, healthful, and, in the end, economical coffee is made with a pulverized berry by the drip method. There are specially constructed pots on the market, but you can construct your own. A wire strainer four or five inches in diameter is lined with firm, but not too heavy, cotton cloth and placed over an enamel or earthenware utensil to drip.

Be sure that the water is boiling hard before pouring through the grounds. Be sure that the utensil in which the coffee drips is as hot as boiling water can make it before using.

Be sure that the filter has been thoroughly saturated with cold water and the muslin is still wet before putting the pulverized coffee in it. Be sure that the coffee pot that finally receives the finished coffee is scalded and heated through. Chilling spoils the infusion.

To make filtered coffee allow one tablespoon pulverized coffee for each measuring cupful of boiling water. Put the coffee in the filter and pour the water through. Keep hot by surrounding the pot with boiling water. Four cups of boiling water and four tablespoons of pulverized coffee will make enough beverage to serve six persons.

This is not the rule for the very strong after-dinner coffee served in "demitasse" cups. The water should be freshly boiled and should not be cooled after it reaches the hard boil stage.

The care given the coffee utensils greatly affects the beverage. The pot in which the drink is made must be carefully washed and thoroughly scalded after each using. It should be perfectly dry before putting away. This is equally true of the pot used for serving. The filter muslin should be emptied and rinsed out in clear, cold water. Then put in cold sterilized water in a covered glass until needed. This sterilized water should be changed daily.

Never dry a filter mustin. Keep it wet and use it wet. The strainer should be washed, scalded and dried after each using.

Coffee is more popular with men than tea or chocolate and a cup of perfect coffee with a sandwich or cracker is ideal for a hostess to offer an evening caller.

Perfect coffee adds much to the dessert at dinner if the sweet is cake or pastry. One crust custard pie is especially good with coffee.

If you try the drip coffee the change alone will be welcome and the percolated taste good again if you go back to it.

(Copyright, 1922, by N. E. A.)

The custard should be firm to the touch when done.

Corn Puff
One can corn, 4 eggs, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately, yolks till thick and lemon colored and whites till stiff and dry. Add flour, butter, salt, sugar, pepper, milk and yolks of eggs to corn. Fold in whites and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

A very good luncheon dish is made by combining corn, canned tomatoes, one sweet green pepper and one-half onion with coarse buttered crumbs. Cover each layer of vegetables with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are brown. This is an excellent way to use up leftovers but it should be remembered that no great amount of nourishment is provided.
